PERIODICALLY a war cry is raised on one or more railroads which are as futile as they are non-sensical. Railways must be run with a system. This is as absolutely necessary as boiling water for good coffee. They must enunciate transportation facilities for a thousand or more miles of road at every change of time. This frequently works hardships on some persons or communities, which can usually be remedied or lessened, materially, if the proper means are used to correct this evil. These reformatory measures can never be effected, however, if denunciatory newspaper articles are indulged in, interspersed with uncalculated personal strictures, or in wholesale anathemas against the corporation. For every evil there is a natural remedy and if oppressive or arbitrary regulations are put in vogue it is proper to learn the cause before you apply the remedy. Every careful physician diagnoses his case before applying the knife, bandage, cauterization or administering the dose which science and experience dictates. So in the case of railway oppressions or arbitrary manipulations of freight or passenger traffic. In all such cases the GAZETTE suggests a plain, unvarnished statement of facts, placed in the hands of the person properly delegated to remedy such evils as may be complained of, and nine cases out of ten the remedy will be applied, and if not a satisfactory reason will be given why the request for re-adjustment cannot be granted. Railway officials, like individuals, will let up on oppressive measures just as soon as the proper efforts are made and they are convinced of such oppression. Denunciation or personal abuse rarely accomplishes anything.

THE many breaks in the water pipes causing the middle of many of the prominent streets to take on the appearance of miniature lakes, show the necessity of commencing the work of grading the streets of Reno. The GAZETTE has on several occasions urged the passage of an ordinance to establish a system of grades. This should be done as soon as practical. All the streets cannot be made what they should be in a year, nor in several years, but the most traveled can be put in much more attractive shape within a reasonable time. The center of Virginia street has been crowned so that any surplus water flows to either side. At comparative little cost the whole street can be put in proper shape. Commercial Row is in such a condition that the center forms the canal through which any waste water flows. This condition of affairs can be endured, but should not. If there was a general ordinance in force, it would not be necessary to establish grades on every street, but a start can be made on the most important ones, and when work is done on the streets where the grades have been established, it will conform to these grades. The sooner the move is made toward a uniform system of street work, the better it will be for the individual citizens and the public.

THE arrest by Mexican authorities of American officers of the law while following the Stein's Pass train robbers across the border shows the need of treaty provisions to cover such cases. The ease between the United States and Mexico is peculiar. Mexico is admitted to full rights and subject to full duties according to international law, but, owing to physical conditions and the character of her population, she cannot be always trusted to discharge those duties. Extraordinary regulations, modifying generally accepted international law, are necessary to secure peace and good order on both sides of the boundary. There is an understanding which permits our troops to follow Indians across the border, but which says nothing regarding the pursuit of white criminals; yet it is very necessary that provision should be made for that to meet contingencies which often arise.

THIS year Easter will fall on the 1st of April—nine days earlier than last year. The earliest possible day for Easter is the 22d of March, and it fell on that day in 1818 for the last time in about two hundred years. In 1918 Easter will fall on the 23d of March. The latest Easter occurred in 1855, the 25th of April, and it will not fall on that date again until 1913.

CARLISLE ON THE TARIFF.

He Talks About the Mills, and Randall Reduction Bills.
WASHINGTON, March 22.—Speaker Carlisle has been looking over the ground and trying to help Mills out of his dilemma. He said: "I am free to admit that I am not as confident as I should wish that the Mills bill for a production of revenue will pass in its original shape, but I am assured that some tariff reduction measure will go on the statute books before this session of Congress adjourns. The difficulty, from what I learn, grows out of conflicting claims and interests of whiskey, sugar, wool, salt and lumber. Some want whiskey and tobacco to carry the bulk of the revenue reductions; others insist on sugar and tobacco, and some, as the interests of constituencies are affected. These conflicting interests I think will be adjusted. I have no doubts whether wool will be continued on the free list; that seems to be the stumbling block in the way of many Democrats. I have never been particularly determined about wool."
Alluding to the Randall bill the speaker said: "With one material exception it is well framed. If he had omitted whiskey and inserted sugar, it would have stood a chance of securing considerable Democratic support. I do not believe that it is policy just yet to interfere with the tax on whiskey."

A SAD DEATH.

An Overdose of Chloroform Kills a Young Woman to Eternal Sleep.

MARYSVILLE, Cal., March 21.—The people of this city were saddened over the death of one of the most popular and handsome young ladies in this place, Miss Lizzie Karr, about 23 years old, and a teacher in the public schools. Last night she retired early, being affected by neuralgia pains in the head. Shortly after she sent a little girl into her room with her down stairs for some chloroform with which she saturated a handkerchief, and placing it on one side of her head went to sleep. This morning her mother and sister called her, and receiving no response went to her room, where they were horrified to find her dead. The mother and sister were terribly agitated and their cries brought in the neighbors. Physicians stated that she had been dead six or seven hours, and that the drug was the cause. All the public schools are closed and will remain so until after the funeral.

CLARA BELLE AGAIN.

Young McDonald Talks About His Wife's Jewelry Purchases.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—The principal witnesses examined in the Swalm case yesterday was R. H. McDonald, Jr., husband of Clara Belle McDonald. He identified the bill for the jewelry purchased by his wife and which, as the witness expressed, completely stunned him. The items footed over $3,500. A pair of diamond bracelets cost $1,000 and a diamond necklace $2,500. In order to avoid a scandal he paid the bill, but used every inducement he could command to get his wife to return the jewelry. Finally he lost sight of the diamonds, and when his attorney drew up his complaint in the divorce suit he said there was no community property. But when Swalm was arrested and the diamonds came to light the witness renewed his claim to them as community property. He had not authorized his wife to purchase the jewelry. She had not presented it to him, and he never authorized her to dispose of it. After this series of emphatic denials the witness was excused.

THE CARSON MINT.

Orders for the Discontinuance of Work There to Be Recalled.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The increase of business done at the Carson Mint is such as to warrant Director Kimball of the Mint to say that the orders for the discontinuance of work will be recalled, as an appropriation will undoubtedly be obtained to continue the work at the Mint, and Senator Stewart has been assured that the transfer of the Mint and Refiner's Trust from Carson to the Philadelphia Mint will in no wise interfere with the work at the office. Assistant Minter and Refiner Parker will be continued in charge until Tuttle's successor is appointed. It is believed that John H. Dennis of Nevada, who is at present in the internal revenue service in Utah, will be given the appointment.

THE DYNAMITE OUTRAGES.

Nevada City People Are Determined to Stamp Them Out.

NEVADA CITY, March 22.—No further attempts have been made to destroy mining property by the use of dynamite bombs. The spirit evinced at the citizens' meeting Saturday night showed that our people were ready and willing, if necessary, to declare their majesty and stamp out a damnable mode of warfare. The dynamiters are evidently convinced that it will not be advisable to make any more attempts. Indications go to prove that the Miners' Union is undoubtedly responsible for the outrages. Subscriptions are being liberally made to a fund being raised as a reward for the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties.

Fire in a Mine.

GRAND VALLEY, March 22.—The fire at the W. Y. O. D. mine was not as destructive as first reported. The hoisting works burned, but not the main building. The loss is $1,500; insured for $500. The machinery was worth $2,000; insured for 1,200. The underground miners had great difficulty in getting out through the small ladder to the adjoining ground. Superintendent Brockington went down an old shaft to alarm the men. He fell and was severely hurt, but succeeded in alarming the workers. Incendiarism is suspected, yet no one has anything against the mine. The owners themselves are working it.

A Great Flood in Montana.

POPULAR RIVER, Mont., March 22.—The Missouri river broke yesterday. Ice dams formed, the river overflowed its banks and the whole river bottom, which includes a section of acres of land, is inundated for over one hundred miles. There will be a great loss of cattle. Settlers living in the bottom land have gone to the hills. The water is the highest ever known in this vicinity.

—The annual report of the Board of Immigration shows the total number of passengers landed at the port of New York during the past year to have been 490,845.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

History of the Case of Mrs. Anker—Local Surgical Skill Triumphs.

Mention was made in the GAZETTE some time ago of a remarkable surgical operation performed by local physicians on Mrs. Anker of Washoe city, a tumor of immense size being removed successfully. The patient is now rapidly recovering and the GAZETTE mindful of its promise to publish, at the proper time, a history of the case, detailed a representative yesterday to gather what facts the physicians would disclose concerning it. The physicians were somewhat reticent at first, because of their reluctance to violate the ethics of their profession, but the following account was finally elicited:

The case was what is known in medical terms as a fibro-cystic tumor of the ovary. The tumor was of immense size, filling the entire abdominal cavity and encroaching on the liver and other abdominal organs and seriously interfering with their functions. The growth of the tumor, as is always the case, was extremely rapid, and under the most favorable conditions would have terminated fatally in three months; hence, an operation for its removal was not only justifiable but imperative. The case first came under the notice of Dr. Dawson on the fourteenth of last month, and the situation having been fully explained to the patient, she at once very sensibly consented to an operation, and with this in view was at once removed from her home in Washoe City to our county hospital. Preparations for the operation were at once commenced by placing the patient under a rigid tonic and dietary course of treatment, and on the 1st instant Dr. Dawson, assisted by Doctors Lewis, Thomas and Bergstein, successfully removed the tumor. The success of an operation of this nature depends largely on the observance of antiseptic conditions, and with this in view even the minutest details were not neglected. To insure an atmosphere free from any possible germs of infection, the walls of the room were disinfected with carbolic preparation and the wood-work thoroughly scrubbed with a solution of corrosive sublimate. The patient, nurse, and everyone connected with the case, was required to take an antiseptic bath; every instrument, sponge, and article used in the operation was rendered thoroughly antiseptic by being placed for several hours in a hot solution of carbolic acid. During the operation the wound and hands of the operators were constantly under a carbolic spray thrown from a steam atomizer. In short, nothing that could in any way contribute to the safety of the patient was neglected, and to these extreme and, as it may seem to many, needless precautions, the present gratifying condition of the patient is due. The wound was dressed with antiseptic gauze, which was not disturbed for eight days, at which time it was perfectly free from any offensive odor. The time consumed in the operation and dressing was about one and one-half hours, at which time the patient had rallied from the chloroform, and from that hour to the present the case has not presented a single unfavorable symptom. The patient is now sitting up for a short time daily.

This case is one of peculiar interest, inasmuch as it is the first of the kind ever attempted in this State. Previous to such cases were either left to die or they were sent away to be placed in the hands of specialists. The public as well as the physicians who had the moral courage to undertake the operation are to be congratulated on its successful termination, as it demonstrated fully that we have home talent, and further that our climate is particularly favorable for the performance of such operations. The result is doubly gratifying as there was a strong opposition to our physicians had not sufficient experience and were not possessed of the requisite skill to undertake so formidable an operation. That such was not the case the present favorable condition of the patient and that she has been rescued from inevitable death and restored to her family and a life of usefulness fully demonstrate.

Manager Piper Arrested.

John Piper was arrested in Virginia City Tuesday evening for an alleged violation of a city ordinance which prohibits the sales in a public hall or theater from being obstructed by chairs, etc., at a performance. The offense is alleged to have been committed at the Haverly performance Tuesday night. The dramatic Volapukian was much exercised over his arrest, and in attempting to explain the matter to a GAZETTE reporter yesterday grew quite indignant over "the tam outrage," as he termed it.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Abbey's double mammoth "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Company will appear at the Nevada Theater tomorrow night. One of the principal attractions of this troupe is the Hyer sisters (colored) of whom it has been said by the press of this continent that if they were white they would be the prima donnas of the opera stage. As implied by its name, this company has a double cast of characters throughout, excepting the character of Eva, which is impersonated by Miss Jennie Furman, claimed to be the most fascinating child actress in the business. There are two Lawyer Marks, two Topoles, two donkeys, two bears (one white and one colored) trained blood hounds and all the other accessories necessary to put the play on the stage in its best shape.

Have you a cough? Sleepless nights need no longer trouble you. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will stop the cough, relieve the inflammation, and induce repose. It will, moreover, heat the pulmonary organs and give you health.

Fryer's Abie's Ointment—Made from the Gum of the Abies Tree, or "Pine Balsam," is guaranteed for Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sprain, Old Sores, etc. Price, 25 cents. Sold by W. Pinniger. All genuine Abie's preparations bear the signature of D. F. Fryer.

AN INDIAN SCRIMMAGE.

Whiskey and a Buxom Squaw Cause the Wounding of Two Men.

Three Indian bucks known as Charley, Bob and Tom, are in quod for participating in a free fight, in which a knife and pistol played prominent parts, at an Indian camp situated about one-half a mile west of the Lake mansion, on the road leading to Frey's ranch. The fight occurred last night about 12 o'clock and had it not been for the treachery of one of the participants the law officials would have remained in blissful ignorance of the fracas. Constable Upon this morning arrested the trio above named as they were boarding the east-bound passenger train, and placed them in jail, where they probably will remain until the next Grand Jury is convened. Upon their arrival at the jail it was found that Bob had been shot in the left elbow, and that Charley was suffering from a knife-wound in the region of the kidney. Neither wound is considered serious by the county physician and both will probably live to drink many more quarts of fire water before departing for the happy hunting grounds.

From the disjointed statements of the prisoners it was learned that the honors of the origin of the quarrel should be equally divided between whiskey and the charms of a buxom squaw, who loved not wisely and too often. The three were badly smitten, all accounts agree, and in their drunken way, were lavish in their language, but it was not until Charley was the favored suitor, then Bob's star was in the ascendant, but Tom would come in gallantly on the home stretch. This state of affairs lasted until the liquor which they had been freely imbibing had taken effect, and what little sense they had, and the three commenced courting the dark-skinned siren at the same time. This could have but one result. A free fight ensued; Bob prospected with a knife for Charley's vitals and the foxy Tom punctured Bob's elbow with a bullet from a buckshot five-shooter, the shooter himself coming out of the scrimmage unharmed.

The three braves and the squaw when arrested this morning were still under the influence of liquor, which they were still drinking at the time. The keeper of the notorious dive on Virginia street known as the Blue Wing. The officers say that it is a notorious fact that whiskey can be procured of this dive-keeper by any Indian who has the money to pay for the poisonous decoction dispensed by her, but positive proof of her guilt cannot be obtained, owing to the refusal of her customers to make oath to the facts. Her time will come, though, and the authorities are determined to show her no mercy, for once they have a good case against her.

DAN SOHL SUICIDES.

His Business Reverses in Reno Cause the Death of Self-Murder.

The sad intelligence is telegraphed that D. B. Sohl, a former resident and business man of Reno, has committed suicide, his sad reverses of the past two years having been more than his proud spirit could stand. His arrival here from Virginia City about one year ago will be remembered, and from the day he announced his intention of embarking in business up to the time of his failure he was recognized as being among the foremost of the merchants here in enterprise or in any movement which would advance the progress of the town. That he allowed his enterprise to overbalance his judgment was apparent and he found himself in such an embarrassed condition financially that he had no other resource but to turn over all of his property to his creditors. This he did to his eternal credit, and when he left here Dan Sohl went penniless but with his honor unimpaired. The sad story of his death is related in the following dispatch:

SALT LAKE, March 21.—The dead body of D. B. Sohl, a former merchant of Reno, Nevada, was discovered near the Jordan river this morning by a boy who was fishing. In Sohl's right hand was a revolver tightly grasped, with the muzzle in his mouth, and every indication seemed to show that deceased fired the fatal shot with the revolver in that position, the ball having crashed through a part of the skull, leaving quite a large hole at the point of exit. The body apparently only laid where found for two or three days.

In Sohl's pocket was found $14 in coin, some tobacco and a pocket-knife and some letters. Among the letters he addressed to Mrs. D. B. Sohl, Virginia City, Nevada, dated March 18, in which he speaks of Mrs. Sohl in very affectionate terms as being one of the dearest of wives, and that he contemplated suicide is because he cannot bear the idea of seeing her and her children suffer.

Part of the letter reads as follows: "I can only tell you this. I am crazy from grief on account of my failure in Reno, and there is no happiness in this world for me. I cannot eat, rest or sleep any more. I have lost all ambition, all hope."

Accident on the V. & T.

The Virginia & Truckee are train which left Virginia City at 3:30 yesterday morning met with an accident which delayed traffic for some hours. The mishap occurred at Haywood Switch, where twelve of the bumps left the track. No one was hurt, although the wreck was so great that the passenger train from this place was delayed so long that it was necessary for the switch engine to take a number of flat cars down to the scene of the mishap to transfer the passengers, mail and express matter to Virginia city.

For Sale.

$30,000. Mrs. Howard offers her 300-acre ranch for sale. The ranch is on the Virginia road, the most desirable of all the country roads in Nevada. It is located eight miles from Reno and in a fertile agricultural section. The ranch consists of about 300 acres and a valuable water right. The ranch has long had the reputation of being one of the most productive of its size of all the ranches in the Truckee Meadows. This year it has produced 300 tons of hay, pasture for 200 head of stock, vegetables and other products in value about $3,000. By the expenditure of a few hundred dollars the ranch could be made to be even much more productive than it is at present. The soil is admirably adapted to the raising of alfalfa, stock and vegetables. This is a good orchard and other buildings, an excellent house, barn and improvements. Price, $30,000; 1/3 cash and the remainder in equal annual installments, interest at 8 per cent, per annum.

$13,650. A Santa's ranch located about five miles south of Reno, which will be sold at $30 per acre, or for $13,650 and on easy terms of payment. There is on the place a good house of eight rooms, two barns and other buildings. The place has plenty of fine irrigating water and as many as fifty springs of excellent drinking water. The ranch yielded this year 350 tons of hay, and pasture valued at not less than $1,000. The total valuation of this year's yield is not less than $3,000. Some one year ago the ranch has amounted to as much as $5,000. As the ranch consists chiefly of pasture and meadow land, the expenditure of running the place is exceedingly small. The ranch is especially desirable as a stock range and for the purpose would yield a handsome profit on the amount invested.

Improving the Breeds of Sheep.

The American Merino has been greatly improved as compared with the delicate, puny, fine-wooled sheep bred exclusively for fitness of fleece, and, of course, giving little thought or care to maintaining either constitution or mutton-producing characteristics. From the last are derived the great bulk of average native flocks in the States. Over the line in Canada more attention has been given to the mutton breeds, and flocks of coarse-wooled sheep are there quite common. These common Merinos are small, but they have one important characteristic. They are hardy and will endure neglect. It is on this that they have been bred, and they exemplify the Darwinian law of the survival of the fittest.

Simply because these native sheep have for generations been accustomed to shift for themselves, they are not profitable sheep for feeding. This kind of hardiness is incompatible with capacity to take on flesh rapidly and put it in the right places to make the best mutton. If we fatten a sheep that has for generations been starved, and it inherits the characteristics of such an animal, its fat is mainly stowed away on its insides, where it can be most readily recalled in the emergencies of hunger that the animal's experience has led it to expect. It takes several generations of liberal and constant feeding to eradicate this instinctive tendency. The process may be hastened by crossing with breeds of sheep that are distinctively superior for mutton, and have good feed and care for many generations back. Cross a native Merino ewe with a coarse-wooled or Down buck, and its progeny will inherit many of the mutton-producing characteristics of its sire. It will be a good feeder and will require liberal feeding from the first. At the same time it will not endure neglect, as would the native sheep without this infusion of new blood.

Crossing, however, is not the way to establish a breed. Cross-bred lambs are usually sold young, or, if saved, are again crossed with pure-bred males of the mutton breeds. This three-quarter blood sheep is nearly as good for the shambles as one of the full-breeds and is of course far less expensive. In fact, they can be had very quickly by taking any native flock of fine-wooled sheep and breeding the ewes to a male of pure-bred mutton variety. After two or three such crosses the prepotency as the pure-bred so marks the progeny that even when grades are used of seven-eighths or fifteen-sixteenths purity of blood there will be a few reveries to the original native type of sheep.

Very different from this was the task that improvers of the Merino, as it is known to the best breeders of the country, have set for themselves, and have accomplished. Fineness of fleece was the sole good characteristic that the old Merino had. It was undersized, and worse still was generally weakly and a poor feeder. It was not really hardy, though it kept a better reputation for hardiness than it deserved, from the fact that when neglected or poorly cared for a part of the flock would die off every winter. Those that remained were therefore strong enough to live under any reasonably decent management. The process of building up a constitution, and with it a decided increase in feeding capacity, and without impairing fineness of fleece, has necessarily been a slow and difficult one. Some sheep breeders in Vermont and western New York have been at this more than a generation. What they have accomplished has become known all over the world, for there have been consignments of the improved American Merinos, not only to our own southwest and to the Pacific coast, but to improve the flocks of Australian sheep breeders.

There was at the outset no chance for rapid improvement by crossing, for there were nowhere any fine-wooled sheep that had the desired characteristics. Lately it has been learned that some French flock-masters have been experimenting in a line similar to our own, and some importations of French fine-wooled Merino rams have been made, and their use has effected improvement in some directions. But the improved American Merino as it exists to-day is hard to beat. Its body is compact and covered from the tip of its nose to its hoofs with the best wool in the world. Freed from yolk and grease its fine-grained fleece weighs more and it is worth more per pound than any other. This kind of sheep has been so long inbred that it will impress its characteristics in the production of more and better wool upon its progeny with tolerable certainty. If a flock-master can by the use of a pure-bred American Merino
